On the first day of school last fall 800 nervous sophomores flooded Elston's doors. They soon became part of the throb of activity as daily routine wove itself back into the lives of 2300 individuals—chatting with a hall monitor (dodging Mr. Rhoads), walking to lunch, awaiting the results of a test, meeting a special boy or girl.

But the bulk of the day was spent working. There were themes to write and speeches to give; book reports meant hours of extra reading. For seniors there was the toil and triumph of a term paper.

Winter locked us three months indoors—the unnerving excitement of basketball united us as one team of two thousand fighting for the glory of M.C. High.

Spring let us out again—we saw action began on the snow-patched track and diamond.

As days grew warmer, minds began to wander—thoughts of the prom and of graduation, of the summer ahead.

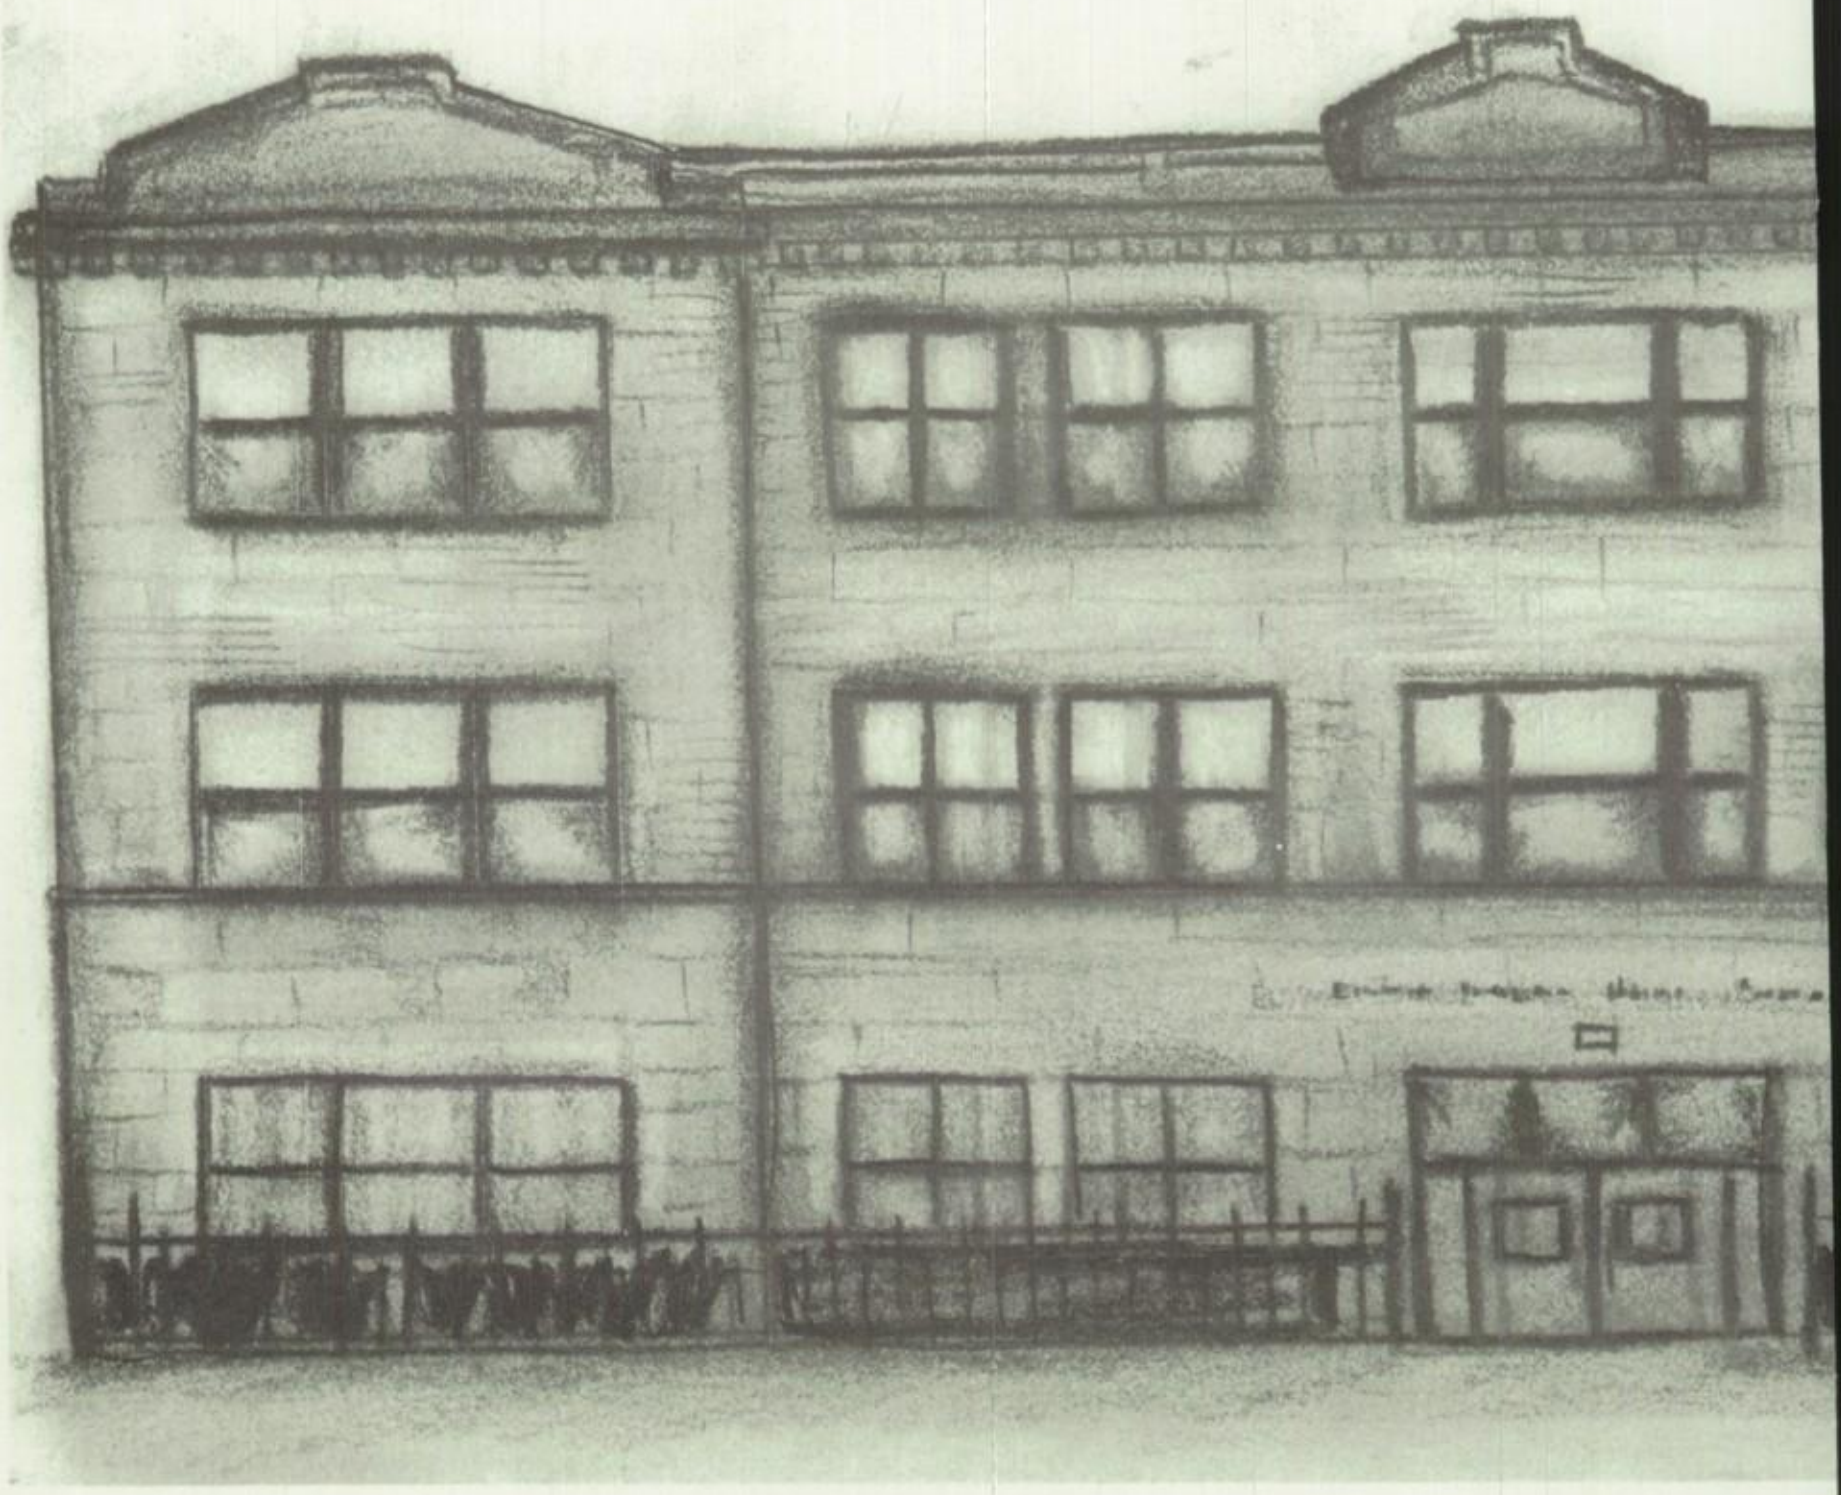
Spring seemed long and never-ending. But the enchanted evening of the prom came . . . finals were taken . . . graduation lay ahead.

In looking to the future the senior wondered: "Am I ready?"

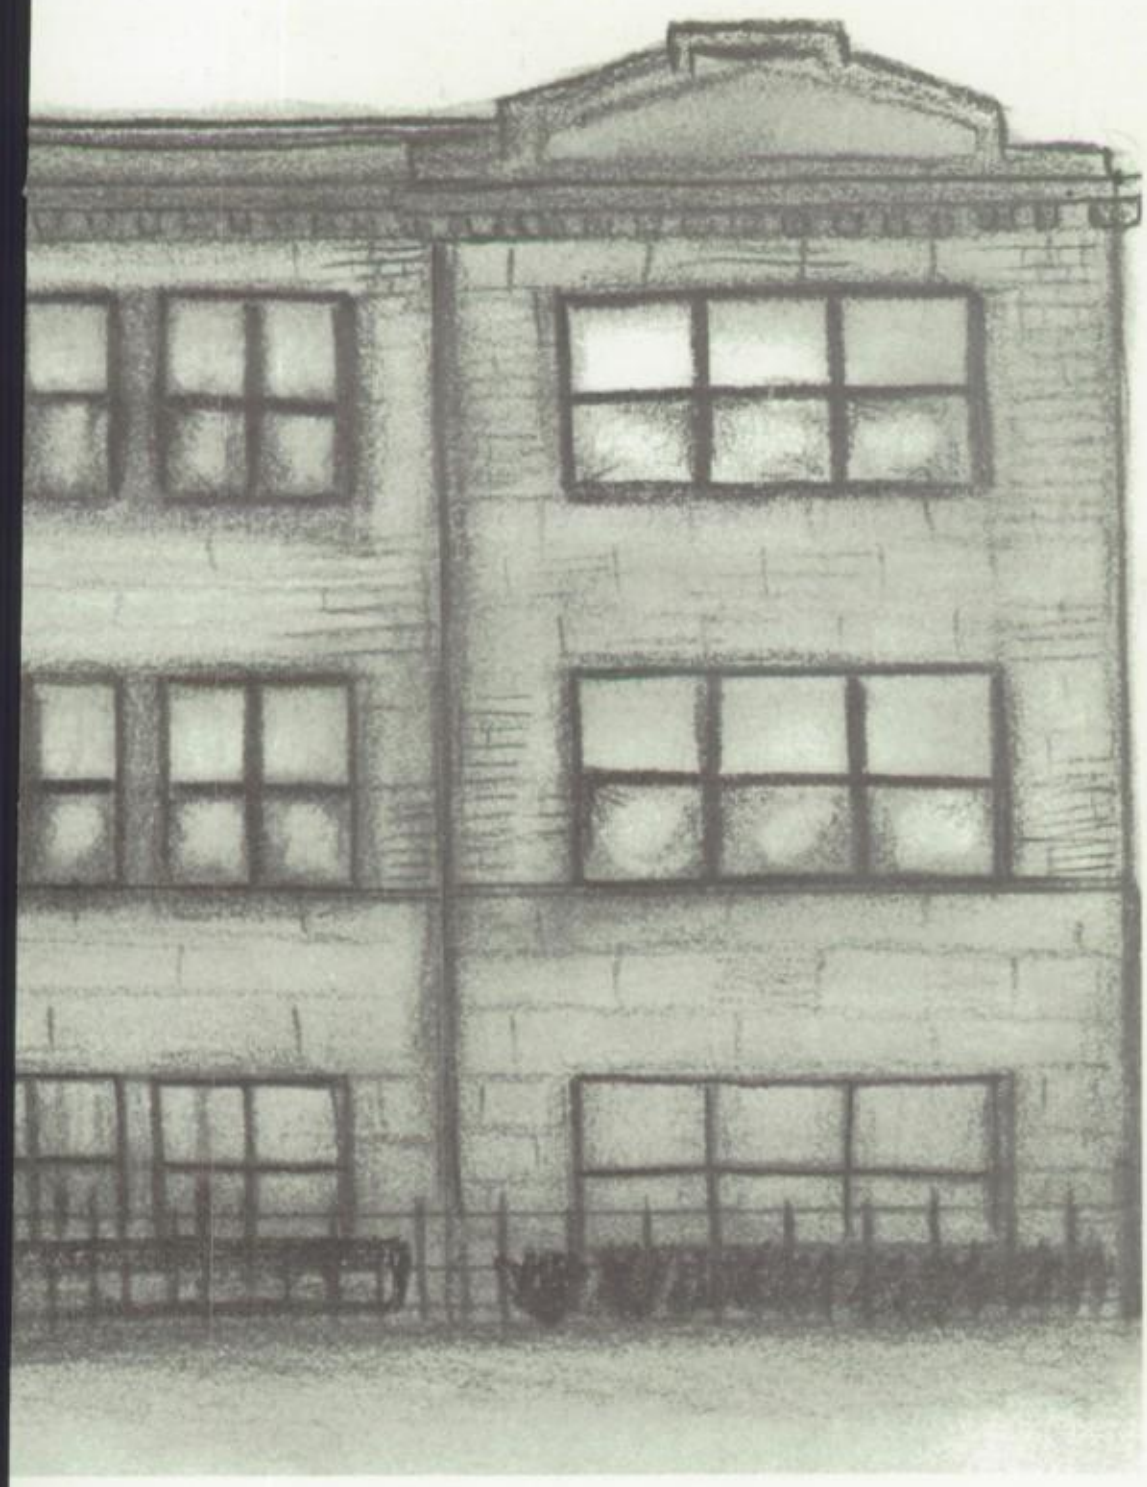
In reflecting on his years at Elston he forgot the hard work, the boring classes, and the crowded rooms.

He looked back to the knowledge gained, the friends made—to the spirit of the things he did.

As he stood there on the stage he relived those things which made every Elston student glad to be Alive in '65.



hail mc high school . . .



Outside Elston in nice weather cars roared by and students gathered along the iron fence and in the courtyard to talk and relax. In cold weather they huddled together near the building to keep warm. Once inside Elston, students fought her obstinate lockers, walked her creaky floors, withstood her clanking radiators. In '65 the orange brick building was proof to Elston students that the quality of a high school is not determined by the elegance of the building, but by the character and spirit of the people in it.

Mary Ann,
To a wonderful

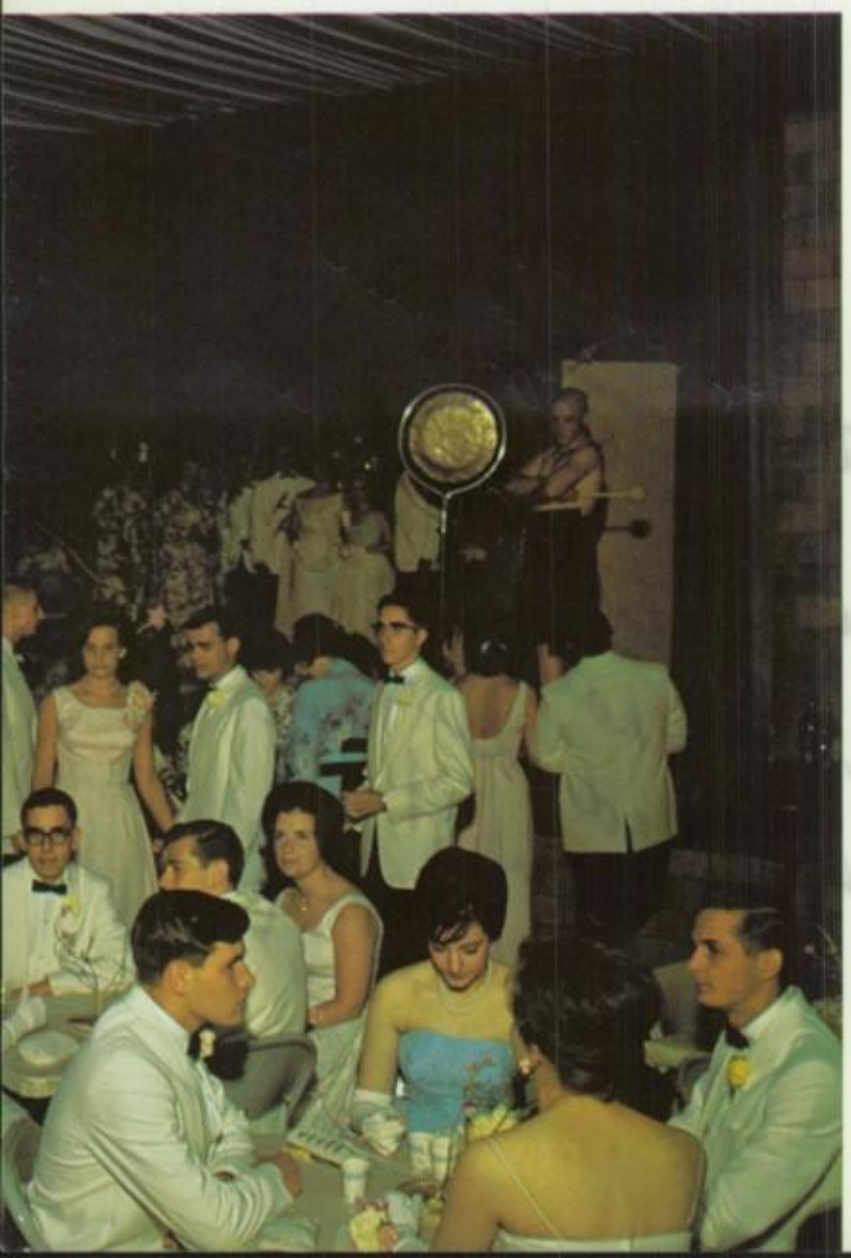
John Vanderplough, Donna Riley, Al Murray, Kris Cook, Bruce Baker, Connie Markowski, and Pat Westberg enter the Prom over the footbridge.

Relaxing at tables, couples enjoy refreshments of fortune cookies and punch.



From the moment classroom life becomes routine and homework begins to pile up in never-ending assignments, thoughts drift from present duties back to summer vacation, those last weeks of school . . . the Prom.

The hours of work, sweat, and frustration which went into producing a prom are only known to those Seniors who experienced the pains of formulating ideas, designing, and, in the last stages, decorating. Tempers ran short as the final touches were being added, and everyone seemed certain that "finished" would never be heard. When the night arrived, a walk over an arching bridge brought couples into the atmosphere of a faraway land. Oriental lanterns cast a pale and exotic light. Sophomore servants in kimonos scurried from table to table where conversations were exchanged as couples relaxed and enjoyed refreshments between dances. A stony path, bordered by brightly flowered trees, circled a rustic teahouse and revealed the beauty of "a Japanese Teagarden."

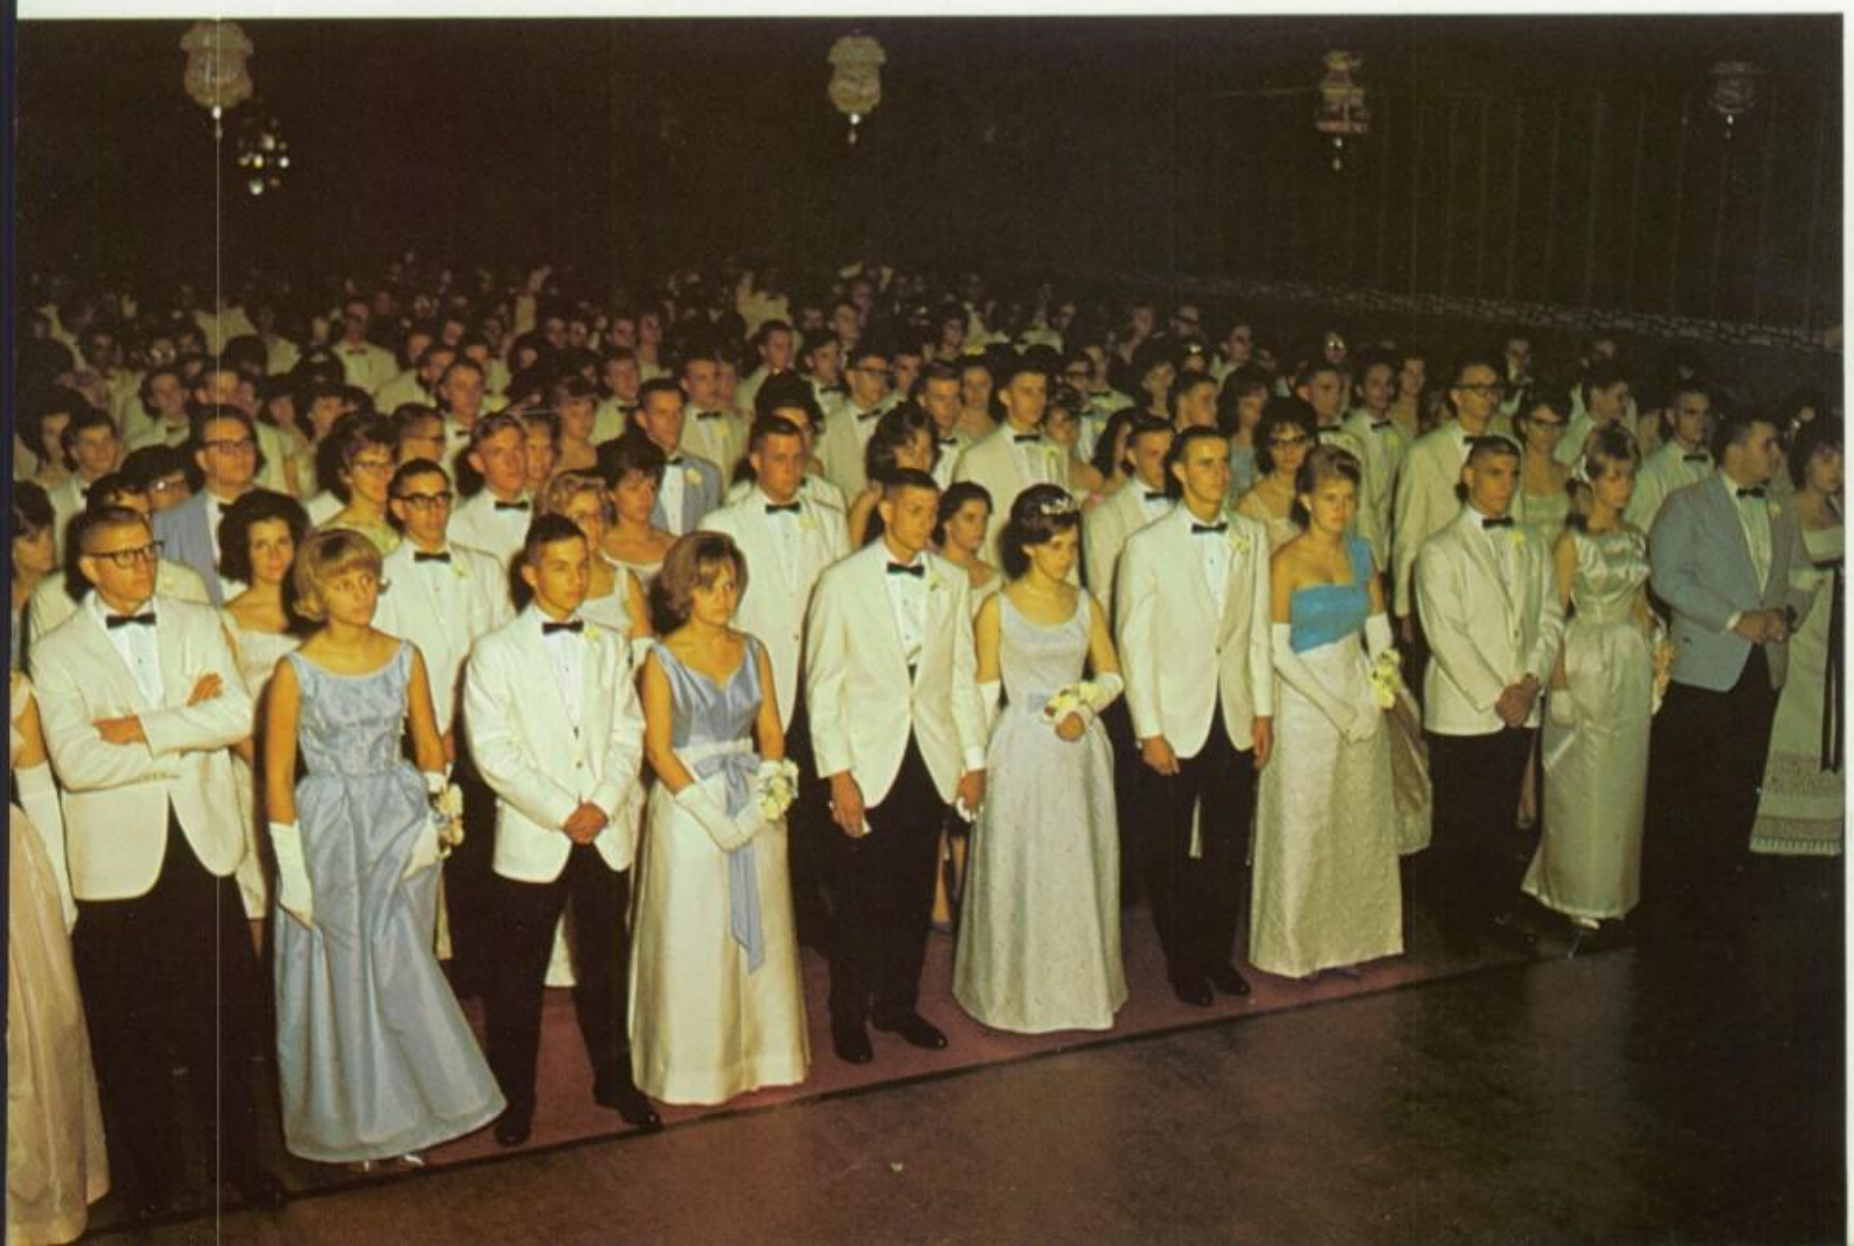
The Grand March highlights the evening.



Often the most vivid memories of Elston are of football and basketball games, of dances at the Y, and of lunch hours with noisy cars roaring by. Sometimes the Elston student forgets the many hours spent in the classroom. Sometimes he fails to realize that the greatest reward came from scholastic accomplishment. Oh, the dances and the parties and the ball games were fun—but without work, without the mental challenge, school life would have lacked meaning and direction—growth here would have been shallow and incomplete. Through his own memories the Elston student realizes that the spirit of his three years at M.C.H.S. depended heavily on his attitude and personal achievement in the classroom.

Long strands of beads, fringed dresses, drooping plumes, white shirt sleeves, and handlebar mustaches —these costumes graced the sophomores' Roarin' Twenties Party. Red checked tablecloths, an old box phone—the old speak easy atmosphere dominated the big gym as "flappers" and their beaus played poker, danced The Big Apple and the Charleston. The entertainment was climaxed by a raid on unsuspecting "gamblers."

A gaily attired "flapper," Liz Mihalick, dances up a storm at class party.

John Lucas and Bob Eidlers highlight the evening's entertainment with a speak easy skit.

"Sure beats the Charleston, baby!" says John Witzgall to Ellen Welker during a card game in the roaring twenties tradition. "Shady" characters in the background are Wayne Taylor, Bill Wilson, Bruce Wilson, and Bonnie Peters.

Mary Ann,
Don't forget

Twenty-one girls displaying talent, personality, and good looks from Elston and St. Mary's entered the Junior Miss Contest. Cash awards and gifts donated by Michigan City merchants were presented to each winner. Mary Lou Aust, the winner, represented Michigan City at the state contest. Connie Newman and Vicki Chern placed second and third respectively. Individual winners in other categories were talent—Denice Bischoff, formal—Janice Smith, and sportswear—Kris Cook.

moods of christmas

Under brilliant lights shoppers dashed from store to store searching for that late gift for friend or relative. Thoughts of vacation, gifts, parties, the Holiday Tourney, and, in some cases, Christmas filled the minds of people throughout the city. The annual Trinity Ball followed a busy holiday weekend. Couples danced to the music of Gene Herrbach under the lights and ornaments of a thirty foot Christmas tree. The spirit of Christmas and the holiday vacation provided a long needed rest for both students and faculty.

thespians present 14th century nativity play

All Seniors who took English 7 are familiar with miracle plays. These Elizabethan productions depicted famous biblical events. The York Nativity Play, performed by the Thespians for their annual Christmas program, portrays the birth of Christ. Written in 1340, it is over six hundred years old and was produced every year for over three hundred years. Miracle plays often cast wicked characters in comic roles, and thus Herod became a comic egotist. The rough, unsophisticated humor contrasted with the splendor of the angels and the sensitive presentation of the nativity.

In the leading roles Mary was played by Judy Rose; Joseph by Dennis Milne; Stage Manager, Sue Ann Levin; Herod, Bryan Ton; Three Kings, Jim Clements, Dave Nicklas, and Greg Preihs; Shepherds, Pete Hoskam, Earl Hurst, and Steve Finger.

Mary, played by Judy Rose, listens in bewilderment as the angel prophesies his birth.

To live on an island with no road and only a ferry between them and civilization: this was Mrs. MacDonald's concept of the ideal life. But Mr. and Mrs. MacDonald (Al Schroeder and Lynn Latourette) were to find life anything but peaceful and ideal. With two boy-crazy teenage daughters (Coleen Baker and Judy Long), the family often found itself fighting loneliness, weather, houseguests, each other, and even the plumbers. These humorous episodes of typical family life in not-so-typical surroundings, the true story of the MacDonald family, was heartily applauded.

Other leading roles were Howard, Bryan Ton; Roger, Tom Stockwell; Claud, John Jones; Claire, Jody Alexander; other parts played by: Sue Van Vlack; Lissa Anderson; Harlene Bud.

Dressed to kill, Roger prepares to rid the garden of bees for Ann and Mrs. MacDonald.

Mr. MacDonald bemoans his fate as father of two teenage daughters.

"the teahouse of the august moon"

Carol Pieszchala learns the subservient customs of the Japanese.

Al Murray lectures to the would-be villagers about the advantages of democracy.

At the end of World War II the troops occupying Okinawa were given the task of rehabilitating the inhabitants of the island. Under these conditions Japanese and Americans began to work and live together, and the army base under commanding officer Colonel Purdy (Dick Swinehart) was no exception. These post-war conditions set the scene for the production "The Teahouse of the August Moon," a satirical comedy of army life and the American occupation of Okinawa. Purdy's personal interpreter, Sakini (John Vanderplough) not only served as translator in the play but narrated the developments when he wasn't being heckled by his boss. The arrival of a new officer, Captain Fisby (Al Murray), triggered a series of hilarious incidents on the island—bootlegging, building a teahouse where a school should have been, and almost becoming married to a pretty native girl, Lotus Blossom (Carol Pieszchala). But the wily Americans learned a lesson from the humble Japanese in the end. Other leads in the play under the direction of Mrs. Pohl were Captain McLeash (Ron Schlundt) and Sgt. Gregovich (John Kenefick).

city honors tom nowatzke

At the La Porte basketball pep session the gym was cloaked in silence as the team entered. Someone noticed a towering figure in the northwest corner of the gym. Suddenly the entire student body broke into a deafening roar of applause as former Red Devil Tom Nowatzke stepped out to be congratulated by Mr. Jones. After four spectacular years at I.U. he had achieved nationwide recognition as an All-American fullback. As he stood before the school at that assembly, it was a proud moment for Elston and those who had taught and coached him. He signed with the Detroit Lions and will begin his career in pro-ball this fall.

Mr. Jones gingerly sets the match to the pile, commencing the spirited evening of the Bonfire.

there is no la porte

These words were yelled in the past, and they will be screamed in the future . . . There is no La Porte! Never has competitive spirit been so strong or deeply rooted in the students of Elston. After defeating La Porte in the basketball sectionals, this feeling fades into the depths of the mind, only to be aroused again in the spring with the beginning of track. Warm summer breezes, however, clear all thoughts of school from a person's head. But as the air begins to chill and football cleats and players' voices are heard in the parking lot after school, we look to the future . . . the wild enthusiasm of the crowd at the burning of the La Porte dummy and the opening kickoff of the La Porte game.

On a Friday typical of December, January, or February students sense a strange restlessness and anticipation. Every person knows what it is . . . a time of spirit, pep sessions, and BASKETBALL.

Of all the events in the school year, that of basketball is the most spectacular. Even now it is easy to imagine the excitement and suspense, hear the deafening roar of the crowd, remember the jammed halls, cold drafts, and smell of popcorn and smoke at half time, and the overwhelming feeling of victory or defeat at the sound of the final buzzer.

competitive spirit benefits charities

Throughout the year various charity drives have spurred the competitive spirit of Elston's students. Every means—legal, that is—was used to accumulate the record breaking total of $1328.18 in the 1964 Elston Squeeze, which was divided among the Exchange Student Fund and six other charities. The student council sponsored the "Squeeze" and awarded trophies to the two winning homerooms.

In the fall the collection of clothing for the Honor Society's annual drive topped all previous years. The bags were sent to welfare centers where they were distributed to needy families.

all in a day's work

A glimpse at an average school day reveals various activities and moods in students and teachers. Atmosphere ranges from the light-hearted antics following a gym class to the thoughtful concentration on a day's assignment. Amid the rush during passing periods, friend meets friend and hears the latest news from the last class. Teachers are pensive, relaxed, aroused—correcting papers, lecturing. Students and teachers respond, challenge, dismay, inspire. Then comes the realization that teachers are human, too.

Deep in thought Jim Richmond pores over his studies.

Grading papers is sometimes a good part of a day's work as Miss Henry can testify.

"Staroba!!! Stand up," bellows Mr. Lonzo.

"Bottoms up," calls Ray Blomberg to Bruce Wright.

Phil Seifert and Diane Dawson exchange thoughts during passing periods.

Clubs and organizations are a vital part of school life. Fun, worthwhile services, and special projects are aims of these groups. At Elston each person can increase a skill and grow in maturity as well as benefit the school: Pep Band increases school spirit during home basketball games by using musical capabilities. Junior Concessions workers can be seen at all home football and basketball games often with cries of "pop corn, potato chips, and Coca-Cola" as they sell refreshments to spectators. Photo Club is a means for camera enthusiasts to increase their knowledge of taking and developing pictures. Using study hall periods, and lunch hours, student store workers sell various school supplies. Canteen members spend their lunch hours and free time after school to sell candy and potato chips.

Hams and Lambs is an important project during the year. Sponsored by the Honor Society, both students and faculty participate in the variety show.

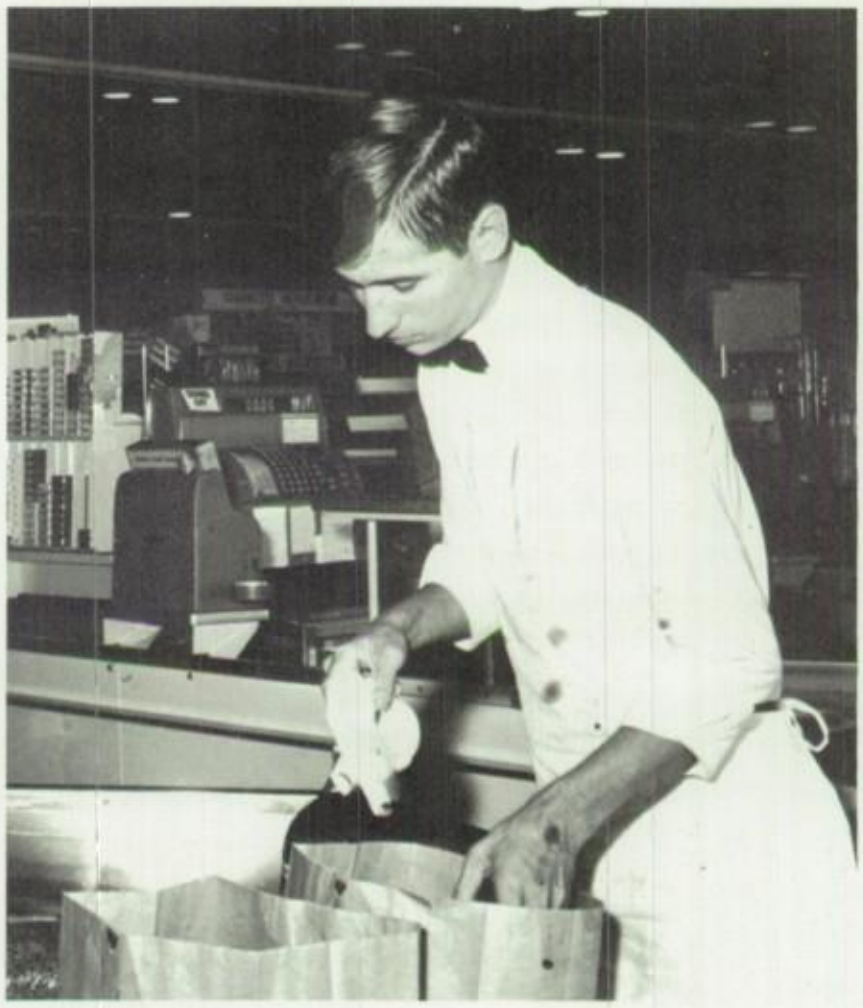
summer means parades, beach parties . . .



Working at his summer job, Dave Meyer packs groceries at local supermarket.

"Who shook up the pop?" squeals Jo Falbo.

For some it was the last free summer before assuming responsibility of a job or of searching for higher learning. It was a time for seminars, journalism trips, institutes, beach parties, and summer school. For five Elston students—Jody Alexander, Pat Plank, Nancy La Fountain, Dennis Pellar, and Dennis Rhoads, it meant an unforgettable experience of a month's travel in eastern Europe while serving as delegates of the C.I.S.V. Inter-Teen's. Girls' State and Boys' State highlighted the summer for Michele Adams, Jane Rasmussen, Duane Kelley, Cliff Yentes, and Chuck Lamm.

For others there were days spent at the beach with the feeling of sand under feet and the sound of the ice cream vendor's bell. The more active ones used their energy in swimming, skiing, and organized activities such as inter-city and American Legion baseball. One main event of the summer was the annual Summer Festival with several students taking part in the parade and ushering at the Miss Indiana Pageant. An unexpected downpour caused apprehension that the parade might be cancelled, but by starting time the sun was out, and the colorfully decorated floats were on their way. Besides relaxation and recreation, many spent hours working at drive-ins, stores, theaters, and gasoline stations earning spending money and money for colleges. With the end of summer came the junior and senior class parties. Gathering around the bonfire, students took part in hootenannies, refreshments, and "catching up" with the latest happenings of the summer. Then, summer was over. Thoughts again turned to school, but many of the events of those summer months would never be forgotten.

elston welcomes two from south of the border

Elston hosted two exchange students in '65—Aida Franyuti from Mexico City and Mike Simon from Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. Aida, a 15½ year old Senior, brightened our school with her sparkling smile and demure manner for little more than two months. Besides carrying a full schedule, she gave much of her free time to helping in the library. She stayed at the home of Sue Wolff in Long Beach, and like any American girl enjoyed shopping and going to movies and attending slumber parties on the weekends.

Mike came to Michigan City in August and spent the entire school year at the home of Dick Swinehart. At a football pep session Mr. Jones presented him a class ring welcoming him to Elston. A loyal Red Devil fan, he was a member of the Pep Band and as a Senior joined in a host of other activities: Office Messengers, Latin Club, Radio Club, Orchestra, and all remaining Band activities.

Dick and Mike read up on the latest jazz artists and their recordings.

Mike enters his new home with his newly adopted family, the Swineharts: Debbie, Dan, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Swinehart, and Dick.

school presents theater success story, "babes in arms"

When Seymour Fleming (John Vanderplough), director of the Surf & Sand Playhouse decides to produce "The Deep North," the young band of theater workers rebel against the play and its ten gallon playwright Lee Calhoun (Tom Gober). So Valentine White (Dave Ross), the leader of these "Babes in Arms" decides to write his own musical, and when "The Deep North" encounters financial failure, Terry Thompson (Lynn LaTourette), with the help of Susie Ward (Connie Newman) convinces Steve Edwards, famous director, to view their play. With Steve Edwards (Randy Robinson) taking an option on the play and the "Babes in Arms" proving they are babes in armor, Bunny Byron (Juanita Dunlap) winds it up in a happily-ever-after finale of "Johnny One-Note." The evening sparkled with other memorable tunes such as "My Funny Valentine," "Where or When," and "Lady is a Tramp." Other leads were Gus Field (Bryan Ton) and Jennifer Owen (Jennifer Ross). Over 100 persons helped to plan and stage the All-School Musical under the direction of Lewis Timberlake and Jerald Halpin.

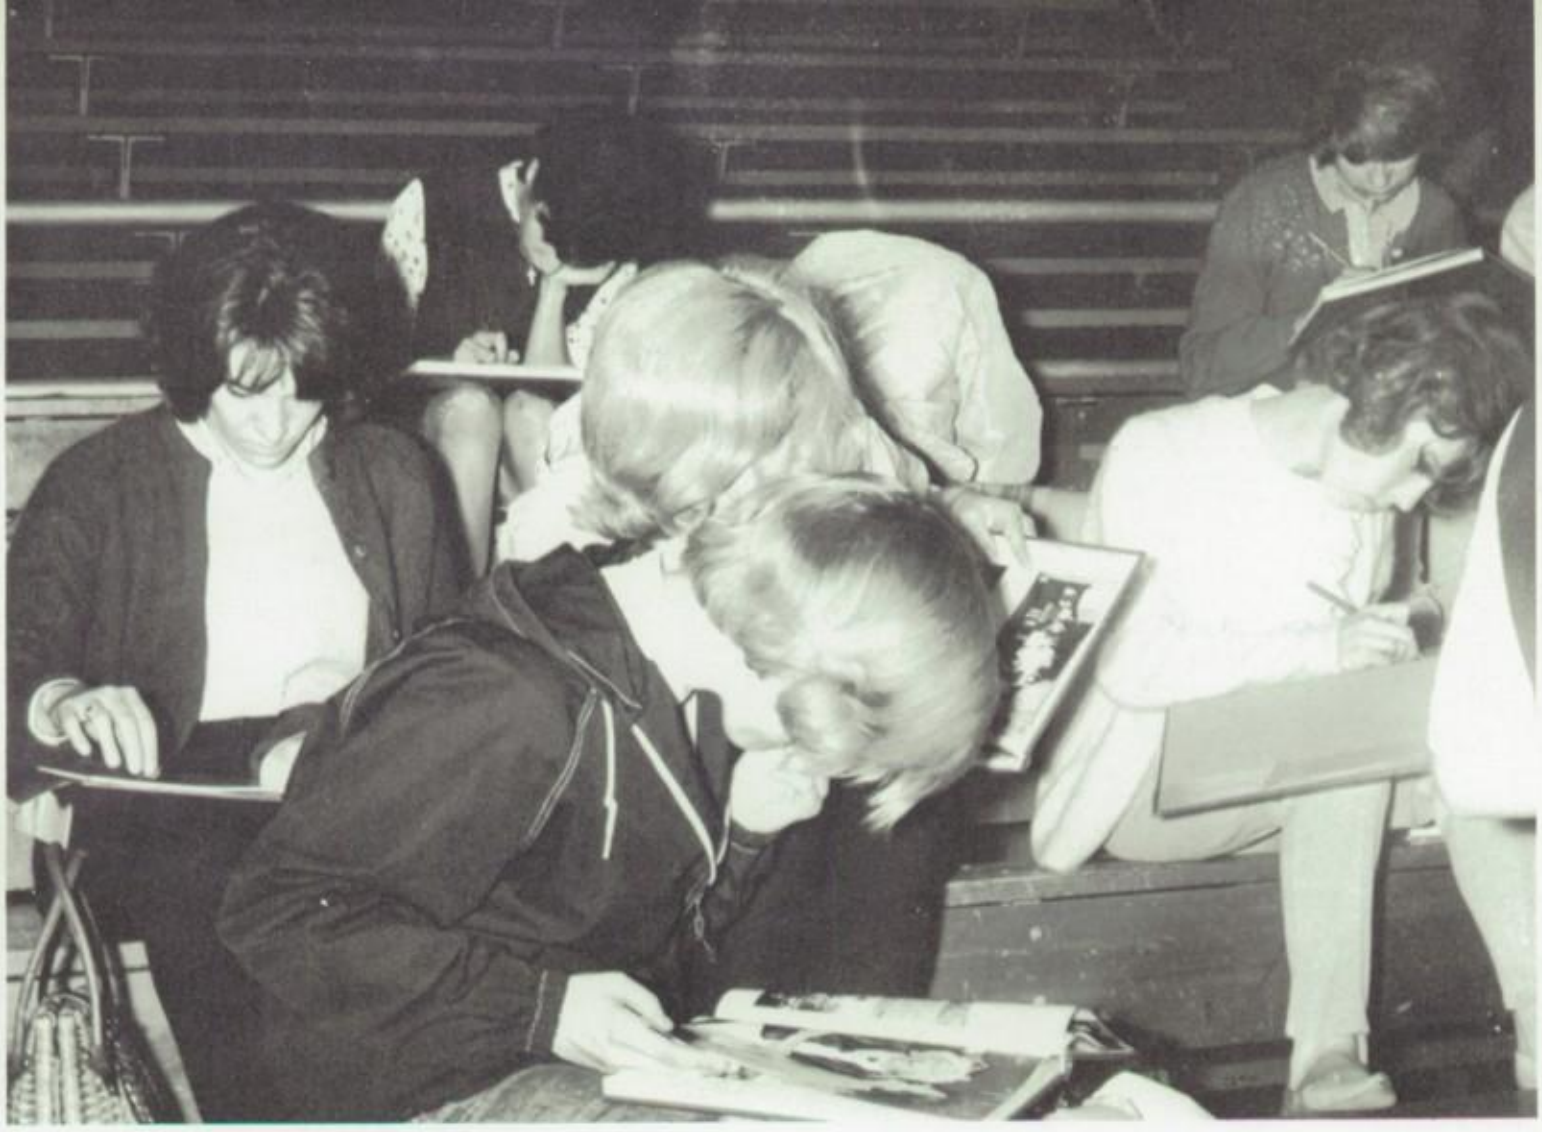
prom and elstonians mark close of school

With chicken wire and crumpled newspaper, Kay Swanson, Kathy Valentine, Karen Purta, and Marge Noveroske form the framework for the entrance.

Intent on stapling and taping the wall paneling are Kathy Miller, Linda Schmidt, Mary Koester, Michele Adams, Denice Bischoff, and Bill Johnson.



Diane Lievense, Mary Koester, and Nancy Merriman steal a few moments to glance over yearbooks.

Staples, hammers, and ingenuity were used to make the colorful Japanese screens.

Hard work and determination were two key factors in making a successful prom.

Starting with nails, chicken wire, lumber, paint, crepe paper, and paper mache, the Junior Class begins to see their months of planning change from a far-off goal to a reality. There were obstacles, too—the paper mache that cracked, the wires that came loose, and the crepe paper that had to be restrung. Although there was an occasional feeling of despair, the immense satisfaction and pride derived served as priceless rewards. Excitement was present that last, hurried week as slowly the gym was transformed into a beautiful Japanese Teagarden. The year's end also signified a triumph for the yearbook staff as the ELSTONIANS were distributed at the autograph dance, and the students saw their year in pictures.

The atmosphere of the autograph dance was one of surprise as students leafed through and signed their yearbooks.

honor society recognizes scholastic excellence

The year's most inspiring ceremony, with the exception of commencement, was the Honor Society initiation. The inductees made their candle-lit way up the aisle of the darkened auditorium; the present members conducted the solemn ritual. For the new members and their parents it was a proud moment. Just as the athlete needs recognition and reassurance, so does the student. The National Honor Society performs a worthwhile service by acknowledging academic achievement. Scholarship is an important prerequisite to membership, but selection is based equally upon leadership, service, and character. In selecting a member, the student body must approve the nomination. The faculty then votes, basing the final decision on character, leadership in the classroom, and service to the school and community.

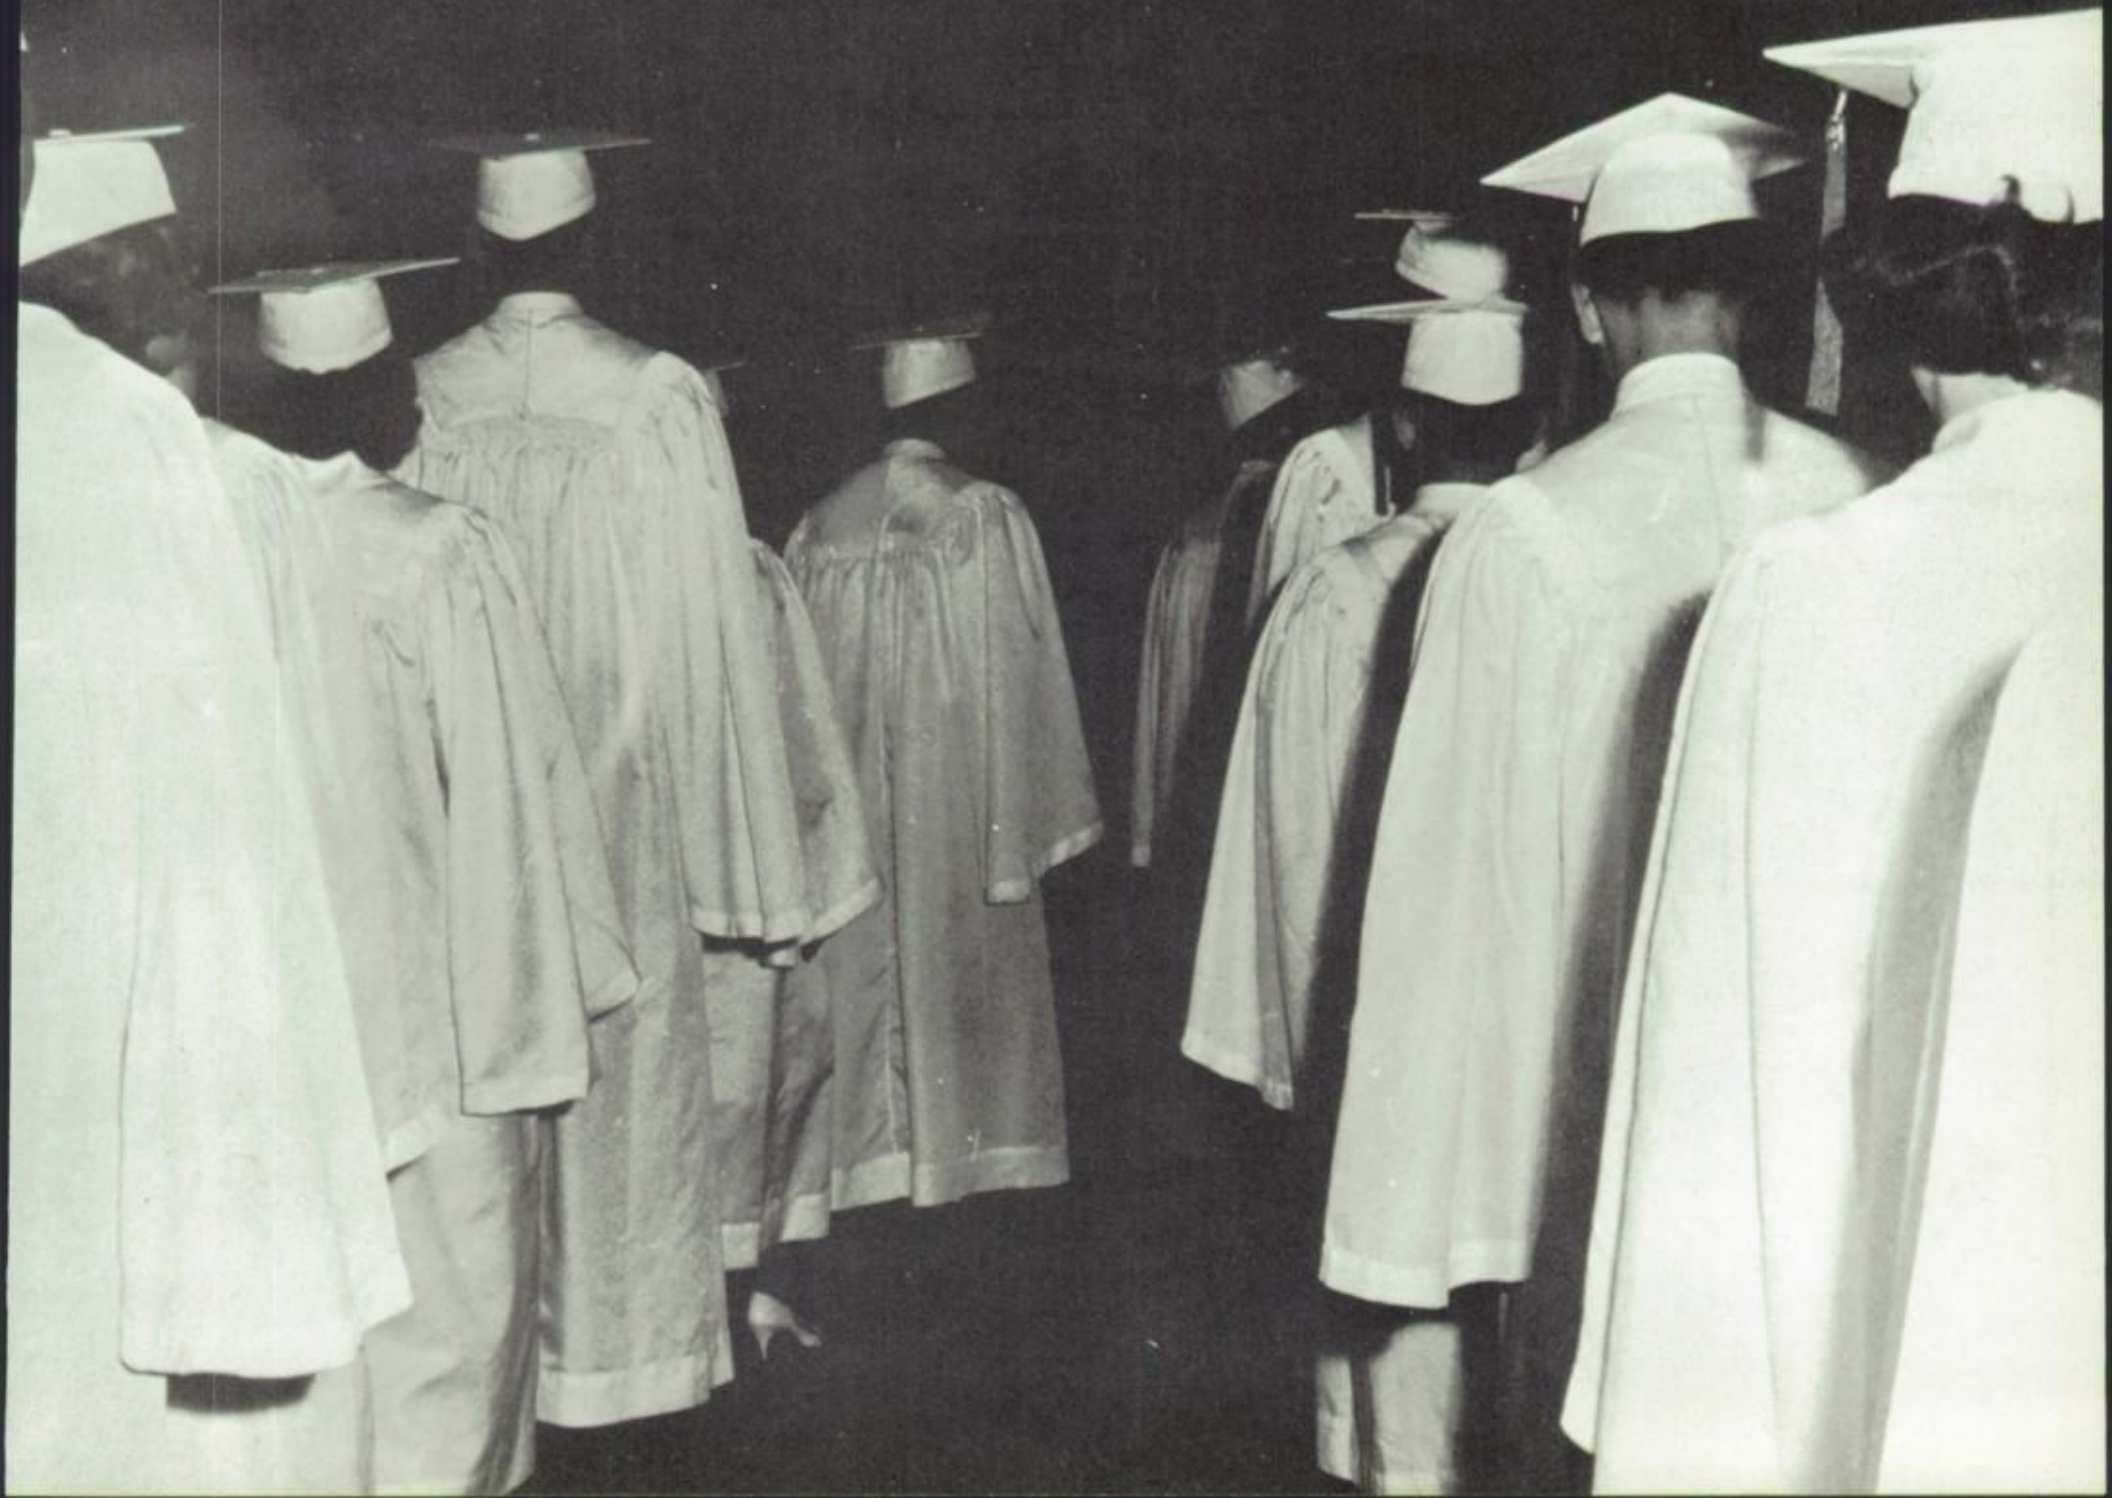
It is a proud moment for Rob Kemp, Sandy Joyce, and Mary Herbert as they proceed to the stage for induction.

On stage President Dave Plank explains the function of Honor Society. Senior members conducted the ceremony, four giving speeches on the qualities upheld by the Society.

graduation—an end and a beginning

Sometime during the senior's last year his outlook began to change—it grew deeper. He thought in terms of life after graduation. As his last year drew to a close, certain personal questions demanded an answer. Reflecting on his fun and his accomplishments at Elston, he thought seriously about his future, of who he was and what he would do. He realized that his diploma signified not an end—but an important step toward another beginning.

Upon entering the adult world, even college, seniors would no longer be called boys and girls, not even young people. Now—as they assumed adult responsibilities—they would be called men and women.



ACADEMICS

MANY IS THE DAY THE STUDENT SITS IN HIS SEAT PERSPIRING, WAITING TO BE CALLED UPON. MANY IS THE NIGHT HE BURNS THE MIDNIGHT OIL, CERTAIN THE TEACHERS COLLABORATED ON TEST DATES. THE STUDENT GROWS. HE GROWS IN KNOWLEDGE AND UNDERSTANDING — NOT ONLY OF HIS SUBJECT, BUT ALSO OF HIMSELF AND THOSE AROUND HIM DAILY. THE PERSONAL SATISFACTION OF HIS YEARS AT ELSTON DEPENDS HEAVILY UPON HIS ATTITUDE AND EFFORTS—INDEED, HIS SPIRIT—IN THE REALM OF ACADEMICS.

ADVANCED MATH PROGRAM EXPANDS

During the past four years an advanced math program, developed at Ball State, was offered to more promising students. This program stressed the structure of the mathematics system by precise definitions in theory and rules of logic. Rather than "rule book" mathematics it emphasized why not how things happen. In addition to this program one class of experimental geometry was offered. Richard Presser, besides having helped to write the textbook used in this class, has made plans for a summer trip to Africa to assist in the writing of another textbook.

Students in geometry applied the principle of logic to mathematical proofs. Algebra taught students to better understand the number systems, both natural and complex. Trigonometry and analytical geometry were offered to advanced students who were preparing to take calculus and other higher math classes.

The opaque projector is widely used in math classes. Here Mrs. Bobinski proves a theorum to her students.

A grimace crosses the face of Chris Finger as she demonstrates the combustibility of hydrogen in chemistry class.

This year for the first time sophomores were allowed to take chemistry with the hope that an advanced science course would be offered during their senior year. This course would combine advanced chemistry, physics, and biology into one course.

In chemistry class the basic fundamentals of three methods were taught. The theory of conventional chemistry included the study of nuclear energy, electrochemistry, and physical chemistry. Through the Chemical Bond approach, students were better able to grasp the "Why's" of chemical reactions by examining and understanding models of various compounds. Several students, working on special projects, created models showing the orbital structures of electrons around the nucleus of the atom. Others built models of molecules showing the chemical bonding, either ionic or covalent.

With the Chem Study approach developed by Glenn Seaborg, head of the Atomic Energy Commission, students experimented in the lab and then attempted to explain what happened and why. For instance, they proved that water ionizes by the electrolysis of NaCl.

SCIENCE DEPARTMENT GETS NEW EQUIPMENT

To anyone other than a physics student, the slanting ramps and the weighted dynamics carts resembled a racetrack. These carts, new this year, were used to apply Newton's laws of motion. Other new equipment included wave generators and light sources which aided students in their study of waves.

Physics is the study of energy and its effects and of the nucleus of the atom. The subject was approached through the study of measurements, heat, and sound with special emphasis on the fields of light and mechanics.

"It works!" Richard Swinehart and David Nicklas apply Newton's laws of motion to measure the effect of force on the acceleration of mass.

The mass of the electron is measured with the use of a stroboscope by Walter Mueller, Steve Mallott, and Steve O'Neal.

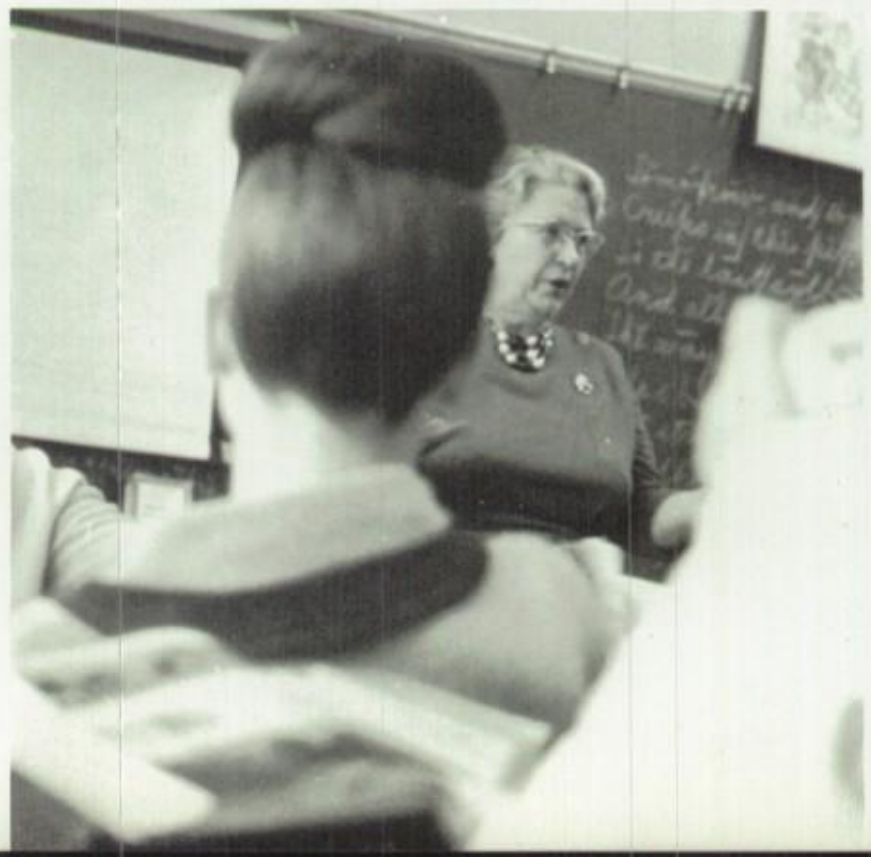
ELECTION YEAR BOOSTS SOCIAL STUDIES INTEREST

Last November Americans all over the country cast their ballots in the general election. Government and history students, too, were given a chance to voice their opinions in a mock election. Government classes stressed Indiana history and government as well as the federal and local to further students' understanding and appreciation of the democratic system. American Problems was offered to students interested in learning about the aims and problems of democracy: freedom, justice, a better life for all people. World History classes surveyed the major cultural, social, political and economic developments from ancient civilizations to the present day. U. S. History was primarily a study of the progress of the American way of life. For college bound students two advance courses were offered: economics, emphasizing the United States economic system; and sociology, the study of the basis of man's development to the point of today's society.

Seniors bone up on current events reading "American Observers." In the foreground are Jean Dale, Sandy Joyce, Jack Martin, Jan Money, and Gene Shawley.

"Lay on, Macduff. and damned be him that first cries 'Hold, enough!'" shouts Bob Bratkovic as he and Terry Wiseman enact one of the last scenes from Shakespears MACBETH.

Mrs. Munger lectures her English 7 classes on the principles of early English peotry.



This year the English department took on a new look. The curriculum combined grammar, composition, and literature into one course, relating composition and literature. Another important factor was that teachers had more freedom because literature was approached thematically rather than chronologically. To the dismay of the seniors, the new curriculum did not omit term papers. They spent late hours in the library preparing bibliographies and taking notes. Also this year the collateral list was expanded to over 1450 books.

"NEW LOOK" FOR ENGLISH DEPARTMENT

Journalism students, Terry Storey, Mary Beth Holloway, Tara Flannigan, and Lou Ann Glade, proof-read copies of the CRIMSON COMET.

In public speaking voice improvement and articulation were stressed. Early in the semester students recorded their voices and later made a second recording for comparison. Besides learning how to prepare and organize speeches, they learned to relax before an audience. In March classes participated in a school speech contest. The finalists then entered the Rotary Club contest.

Who? What? When? Where? Why? These were questions journalism students learned to answer as they worked to develop a clear, concise style of writing. The first semester was a survey of journalism in all forms of communications—radio, television, magazines, newspapers. Journalism II students produced the CRIMSON COMET, a student production, which involved taking pictures, selling ads, making lay-outs, and writing copy.

TAPES AID LANGUAGE CLASSES

First year classes in French, German, and Spanish stressed pronunciation and the basic rules of grammar. Emphasis was placed on understanding and speaking. Conversation was continued in second year classes with a greater emphasis on reading and translation. Third year classes studied history and culture and read the works of modern and classical authors. The language classes were aided by tapes recorded by native speakers. French students were assisted by tapes and film strips produced under the Encyclopedia Britannica's program, Je Parle Francais. First year Latin students studied the essentials of grammar and built a limited vocabulary. Second year students learned rules of grammar and the more difficult Latin constructions. They translated stories of Roman history and mythology such as "Jason and the Argonauts." A third year class was offered to twenty-eight students, who translated the works of Romans such as Cicero and Pliny. Through Latin, students increased their knowledge of the English language.

TEACHING AND T & I OFFER SPECIFIC VOCATIONAL TRAINING

Repairing engines is part of David Hycner's work at Edgewood Motors.

The New Math program proved to be just as new to cadet teachers as to elementary school children, but new math was only a part of the routine. Activities in Cadet Teaching included planning bulletin boards, teaching games and songs, and reading to children. Daily classroom participation and observation helped students to discover whether they had the abilities necessary to become successful teachers.

On-the-job training was offered to many qualified students in the T&I program. Participating students spent one-half day in school and one-half day working in local businesses and industries. Areas of training include hospital work, printing, dry cleaning, and drafting. Through this work experience students were able to secure full time jobs after graduation.

With nearly all eyes focused on the teacher, second-grade pupils listen intently as Marilyn Jones, cadet teacher, reads a Christmas story.

NEW MACHINES BROADEN COMMERCIAL COURSES

Students in the stenographic and clerical courses prepared for jobs as bookkeepers, office clerks, and secretaries. Available to all seniors was a work-experience program, which provided for two weeks in school, two weeks on a job. Through the program many were able to secure either full or part-time jobs. New this year in the commercial Department were electric typewriters and an IBM key-punch machine, which offered students training and experience in these modern fields.

Equipped with protective cover-alls, gloves, and goggles, boys in shop classes learned to handle tools and machinery safely and efficiently. Wood shop pupils developed skills in finishing wood surfaces and planning projects such as bookshelves and tables. The proper operation of machinery, from simple hand tools to the complex milling machine, was taught in machine shop. Other shop courses including power machine shop, blueprinting, welding, and electronics were offered.

CIVIL DEFENSE TAUGHT IN SAFETY CLASSES

With the aid of a large plastic model of the human body, health classes studied physiology and anatomy. Healthful living—physical, mental, emotional—was the objective of the class. Personal grooming, study habits, and preparation for the future were also taught. Time was spent learning the harmful effects of alcohol, tobacco, and narcotics. To illustrate these effects, students drew posters. An important two week course in civil defense was included in safety class which generally stressed road safety, water, home, and industrial safety. Safety was a prime requisite for driver's training.

FASHON SHOW SPARKS HOMEMAKING YEAR

The spicy aroma of cinnamon rose from freshly baked Christmas cookies and drifted into the halls. Chef and cooks developed skills. Besides baking and cooking, students learned to plan and serve meals. Wearing bright dresses, girls in fashion arts modeled their creations at the Spring Style Show. The classes made new garments—suits and formals—and altered and repaired old ones. Girls studied grooming, color harmonies, and fabrics. Interior decorating taught students to create attractive and suitable furniture arrangements. Care of patients was taught in home nursing. Students learned that recovery depends on proper care which includes taking temperatures accurately, making a bed with a patient in it, and giving bed baths.

BAND GETS NEW UNIFORMS

To the sound of rolling drums and blaring trumpets the high school band paraded out onto Ames Field for the first football game last fall. All eyes focused on the band members, who were sporting new uniforms equipped with everything from tall, black chakos to white spats. Band students toiled to pay for these uniforms with Tag Days and Christmas candy sales. The year was a busy one—beginning with daily marching practice on Gill Field in preparation for football games—climaxing in heavy rehearsal for the band contest and the spring concert.

The vocal music department also hummed with activity. Chorus members studied tone production and vocal technique. Music ranged from early Renaissance to the present popular mode. Members of Girls' Chorus, Concert Chorus, and Mixed Chorus worked, hoping to become good enough to eventually be a part of A Cappella Choir. In the spring the choruses performed for the Kiwanis Club and also took part in the Quad City Festival.

The big event of the year was a spring concert combining the efforts of the band and the choruses.

ART AND CRAFT CLASSES INCREASE SKILLS

Gaining a firm foundation in drawing and composition and exposing students to skills and techniques of art was the goal of this year's art classes. While the first year art students were learning the basic techniques of sketching, lettering, and creative design, second year students were continuing with work on figures of human heads and portraits. Putting all their artistic knowledge together, the third year students followed up by drawing human figures and painting with water colors and oil paints.

Craft students were taught creativity and appreciation of the crafts. First year students began with paper mache', block printing, and clay modeling. The second year students worked with wood designing and clay techniques. Students in their third year of craft applied past learning to their work in clay figures, carving, and block printing.

GYM CLASSES STRIVE FOR PHYSICAL FITNESS

Physical fitness was the goal of the Phys Ed Department this year. Each student was tested on his ability at the beginning of the semester, then again at the end to see how he had improved. Volleyball, tumbling, basketball, rhythm dancing, softball, and warm-up exercises were the main areas of improvement.

When weather permitted, classes were held outside. Students, especially boys, continued their work in baseball, broadjumping, football, wrestling, and jogging the track.

BIG RED STARTS AND

The Red Devils opened their gridiron season by downing Gary Tolleston's Blue Raiders, 10—7. The Devils scored safeties in the second and third quarters to give them a winning three point margin. The following week the Devils were defeated by South Bend Washington, 23—13, in a game which was to head a string of seven losses. The closest of these was a 14—13 defeat by the Hobart Brickies. Elkhart, last year's number one team in the state, rolled over the Devils, 21—6. City's lineup was rearranged because of illness and injury when the Big Red traveled to South Bend Riley. There the conference co-leaders scored a 25—6 victory over Elston. In the homecoming game the Devils hosted Mishawaka. Elston took a 7—0 lead in the first quarter and led 13—12 going into the final period. A pass interception and three ground plays gave Mishawaka a touchdown and an 18—13 lead which the Devils were not able to overcome.

The Red Devils closed their season in fine style with a victory over South Bend Adams. Ralph Wright scored on a pass with one second remaining in the first half. The extra point was good, and City led, 19—14. The Devils scored again in the third quarter, but Adams narrowed the gap with a touchdown early in the fourth. Neither team scored again, and the Devils claimed a long awaited victory, 26—20. The team selected Mike Frageman and Fred Keen as co-captains. Fred was also voted the most valuable man in the backfield, and Jim Snyder was voted the most valuable lineman. Receiving All-Conference honorable mention were Dave Swanson, tackle; Fred Keen, fullback; Mike Frageman, tackle; and Larry Crane, end.

HARRIERS WIN SECTIONAL MEET

The Red Devil cross country team, comprised mostly of juniors, compiled an impressive season record of fourteen wins and two losses. Both losses were in conference meets, placing the team third in the conference with a record of 7—2. In their season opener the Devils scored a close 27—28 victory over Valparaiso's Vikings, rendering the Vikings their first home loss since 1960. In defeating Gary Lew Wallace 15—50, Devil runner Bill Wilke set a course record. He covered the two miles in 9 minutes, 48 seconds, breaking his old record of 9:55.

Coach Fischer's boys finished first out of eighteen teams in the sectionals at South Bend Riley and eighth out of twenty-two teams in the Shortridge Invitational at Indianapolis. They placed seventh at the regionals held in La Porte against several of the best teams in the state. The first four teams to place in the regional also copped first, second, third, and fourth at the state meet.

SWIM TEAM HAS REBUILDING SEASON

The Red Devil tankmen faced a rebuilding season this year with the return of only one letterman, Al Murray. Michigan City's swimmers dropped six meets in a row before defeating Elkhart, 54—41, for their first season win. The following week the tankmen lost to Horace Mann by a slim margin, 52—43 in the last relay. Their bad luck was duplicated when they were again downed in the final relay by Portage, 48—46.

The Devils copped second place at the Goshen Relays with Al Murray, winner of the 100 yard freestyle, taking City's only trophy in an individual event. In the NIHS Conference Meet held at South Bend Washington sophomore Glen Curtis placed sixth in the 100 yard backstroke to give the Devils points in the final standings. In their most exciting meet of the season, the tankmen won all but two events as they raced to a 55—39 victory over La Porte's Slicers. Although the overall season record was unimpressive, Coach Kuszmaul trained a fine nucleus of sophomores and juniors for next year's team.

RED DEVILS SHARE CONFERENCE TITLE

It was another big year for Michigan City's Fighting Red Devils. Coach Adams' team tied with South Bend Central for the Northern Indiana Conference Title with a record of 8—1 for conference play. Their over-all season record was 18—6. The Devils, one of Michigan City's tallest teams in years, dominated rebounding in most of their games. In scoring they averaged 83 points per game, allowing the offense to score an average of 69 points against them. Near the end of the season the Devils defeated Ft. Wayne North and were ranked tenth in the state.

A veteran Gary Froebel team downed Michigan City in the Devils' season opener. Froebel's Blue Devils grabbed a first quarter lead and built it to a 40—25 advantage in the third period. City narrowed the gap to 66—64 in the fourth quarter, but Froebel's final spurt ended the game 75—68. A 93—64 victory over St. Joseph (Mich.) headed a six game winning streak for the Red Devils. The most exciting of these was a 106—98 win over Valparaiso's Vikings. Both teams lost three players due to fouls. The Vikings made 40 free throws out of 46 tries, hitting 26 in a row. Traveling to Lafayette for the holiday tourney, the Devils' winning skein was broken when Lebanon edged them 81—80. In the consolation game City scored a 96—83 win over Greencastle. Three weeks later the Devils snapped Elkhart's winning string when they dumped the Blazers 76—66. Elkhart had not lost a home floor game in its last sixteen starts. South Bend Washington handed the Devils their only conference defeat of the season. The Panthers gained an 8—0 lead at the start and led all the way, rolling over Elston 79—66.

DEVILS EXTEND SECTIONAL STRING TO FOURTEEN

The Red Devils dumped the La Porte Slicers in their first game of the sectional tourney, 56—48. Their winning margin was again six points as it had been earlier in the season. The Big Red then rolled over New Carlisle, 95—59, and Westville, 95—48, to win the sectional tourney for the fourteenth consecutive year, establishing the second longest string of sectional wins in the state.

For the past thirteen years City has traveled to the Calumet Regional. This year the Devils were switched to the regional tournament at Elkhart. The Devils, out to avenge an earlier defeat, played South Bend Washington's Panthers in the second game of the afternoon. Duane Kelley put City ahead, 16—14, with a spectacular forty foot shot as the gun fired to end the first quarter. The Panthers copped the lead in the second period and held it until the Devils tied the score in the fourth quarter, 51—51. Washington spurted ahead once more and finished the tournament game 65—55.

Coach Al Whitlow's Pink Imps, like the Red Devils, finished with a conference record of eight wins and one loss to tie with South Bend Central for the conference crown. Their one conference defeat came at the hands of South Bend Washington. Two of their games ran into overtimes with the Imps victorious over South Bend Central, 48—46, and downed by Chicago Marshall, 55—53. The Imps finished their season with a record of sixteen wins and two losses.

The Red Devil matmen in their second season gained valuable experience although winning only one meet. Coach Cripe's team was forced to forfeit five points in each meet because the Devils had no wrestlers in the ninety-five pound weight class.

Mike Henry, a junior, won nine of his thirteen matches to lead the Devils in points. He also held top position for the highest number of pins, with six. Another junior, Dennis Walter, won seventy-five percent of his matches by pins, leading the team in that respect.

LINKSMEN BREAK EVEN

The Red Devil golfers broke even this season with a record of nine wins in eighteen matches. Coach Miller's boys, last year's Lake Hills Invitational Champions, relinquished their title to Gary Andrean by placing fourth this year. In the LaPorte Invitational the Devils copped fifth place.

City golfers qualified for the state tournament by placing second out of thirty-one teams in the sectionals at Lake Hills. LaPorte edged the Devils out of a first place win by a narrow margin of two strokes, 327—329. Brent Bachmann with 80 was low man for the Devils. He was backed by the scores of Jim Peo with an 82; Jim O'Connor, 83; and Jack Allen, 84.

The linksmen finished seventeenth in the state match, led by Jim O'Connor with an 80. Jack Allen, Brent Bachmann, and Jim Peo all shot 84's.

The Red Devil cindermen compiled a fine season record of seven wins and one loss. The Devils placed fifth in the Hammond Invitational, conference, and sectional meets, and fourth in the LaPorte Invitational. In the sectional meet, a twenty-nine year old record fell to John Selke's broad jump of 22 feet, 1½ inches. Charles Grinston in the La Porte Invitational ran the 880 yards in 1 minute, 56.3 seconds, the best time in the state for the 1964 season up to that date. Coach McAnally had four conference medal winners—Cabot Holmes, Dan Lauer, John Selke, and Steve Major. Four school records fell this year and presently stand as follows:

DIAMOND SQUAD CAPTURES CROWN

With only three returning lettermen the Red Devil baseball team battled its way to a conference tie. The over-all season record was thirteen wins and five losses. Coach Parry's boys won their first three games of the season in the last inning of play. They chalked up three more victories before their winning streak was checked by Hammond Noll, 6—3. The Devils lost their last conference game to Goshen, 6—5, on errors. With a record of six wins and two losses for conference play, they had tied with Elkhart for the Northern Indiana Conference Title.

The diamond squad won its own four-team tournament this year. Although the Devils played errorless ball in defeating Chesterton, 5—2, all five runs were unearned. In the title contest in the evening the Devils downed LaPorte, the defending champions, 3—2.

Three school records were set this season: Mickey Kazmucha, a junior, set two of them, establishing the best strike out—walk ratio, 70—6, and a record of two home runs in one season. Gene Foldenauer, also a junior, set a pitching record by making fourteen appearances.

Long hours of practice, and then the game . . . and arguments in the dugout.

PEOPLE

THE YEAR '65 SAW OLD FRIENDS AND COUNTLESS NEW FACES AROUND ELSTON—FACES OF STUDENTS, TEACHERS, AND ADMINISTRATORS—ALL INTENT UPON RECEIVING OR ADMINISTERING AN EDUCATION. THERE WERE SCORES OF OTHERS VITAL IN RUNNING THE SCHOOL—SECRETARIES, DIETICIANS, NURSES, AND MAINTENANCE MEN. ALL THESE PEOPLE GIVE ELSTON HIGH ITS PERSONALITY. THE SPIRIT OF ELSTON DEPENDS ON THE INDIVIDUAL SPIRIT AND ENTHUSIASM OF ITS 2500 PEOPLE.

ADMINISTRATION

Ara K. Smith
Superintendent of Schools

Wallace H. Yentes
Assistant Superintendent

This year six surrounding school districts merged to form the Michigan City Area Schools Corporation. Authority to operate this school system comes from the State of Indiana and from the local Board of Trustees down to the superintendent. To handle the increased administrative task, Mr. Yentes was made associate superintendent while Mr. Raisor and Miss Alma Koza became assistant superintendents, Mr. Raisor being in charge of secondary and Miss Koza in charge of primary education.

Assistant Superintendents—Mr. Robert Raisor, Miss Alma Koza.

SCHOOL BOARD Mrs. Grace Sparrow, Mr. Roger Joers, Mr. W. Worth Holmes, Mr. James Young, Dr. P. J. Pilecki, Mr. Frank Wentland, Mr. E. Preston Calvert.

Warren E. Jones
Principal

ADMINISTRATIVE DIRECTORS—STANDING: Mr. Thomas Sparks, Vocational Director; Mr. James Wagner, Audio-visual Director; Mr. Thomas Hendricks, Director of Instrumental Music; Miss Ruth Kemena, Director of Health and Service; Mrs. Janice Breed, Director of Guidance. SEATED: Mr. Lewis Timberlake, Director of Vocal Music; Miss Nancy Calvert, Director of Public Relations; Mr. John Mohamed, Director of Art.

The main office at Elston was busier than ever in '65. Mr. Jones, his assistants, Messr. Wegner and Nowak, and the secretarial staff finished their second successful year. To handle the increased burden of office work, Mrs. Katherine Bauer joined ranks with Harriet and Mrs. Larson.

In the administrative structure two new directors were appointed to co-ordinate the Music and Art curriculums in all Michigan City public schools. Mr. Lewis Timberlake was made Director of Vocal Music and Mr. Jchn Mohamed Director of Art.

ADMINISTRATION MEETS CHALLENGE OF INCREASED ENROLLMENT

Frank Nowak
Assistant Principal

Harold Wegner
Assistant Principal

Mrs. Larson and Mrs. Bauer prepare report cards.

Secretary Harriet Wright listens with sympathetic ear to a tardy student's plea.

SENIORS AT LAST!

To any Elston Senior the year 1965 was a finale to three years—three years of classes, work, and teachers—three years of Red Devil games, football, basketball, and swimming—three years of assemblies, elections and activities—three years of homecomings and dances, parties and fun. The sophomore year began it—a year of uncertainty, of new activities, and the sophomore party, "West Side Story." The middle year was a time of hardwork, tests, the junior play, "Mousetrap," and the prom "Japanese Teagardens." Then came 1965—Fred Keen, president; Al Murray, vice-president; and Kristi Cook, secretary-treasurer, led the Senior activities. Helping the class for the three years were the sponsors Miss Calvert and Mr. Cook. Certainly 1965 was a finale—eventful and educational—one the Seniors of '65 will always remember.

Leading Senior activities were Fred Keen, president; Kristi Cook, secretary-treasurer; and Al Murray, vice-president.

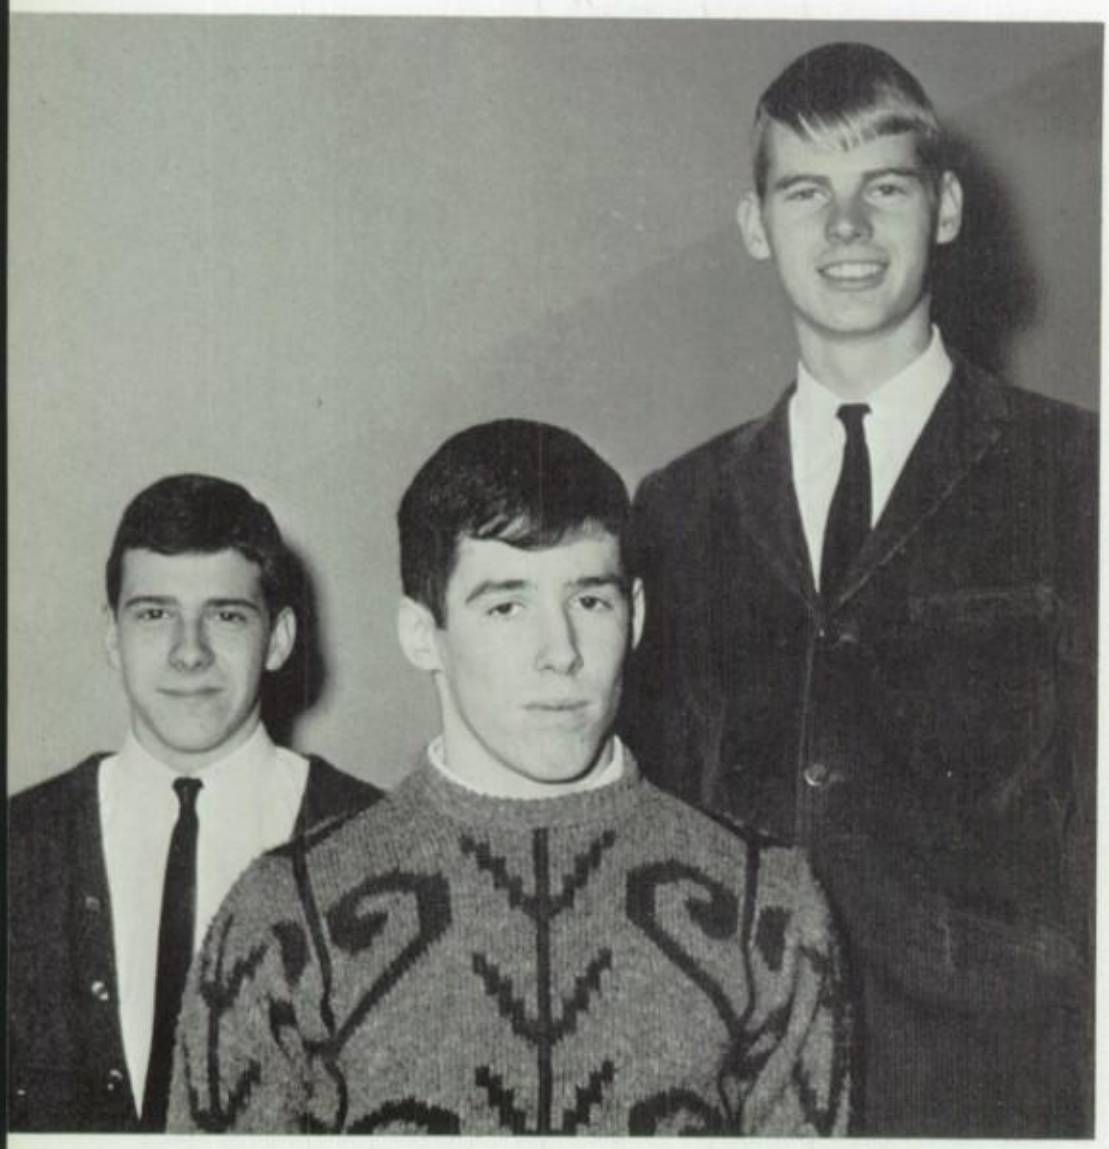
THE MIDDLE YEAR



The "Three Musketeers" of the Junior class are Rick Boyer, vice-president; John Holmes, president; and Bryan Ton, secretary-treasurer.

As second year students at Elston, Juniors were introduced to different classes—chemistry, shorthand, and American literature—and to more social activities —steering committee, student council, and clubs. They received the distinction of having the largest mouths at the pep sessions as they cheered their team on to victory. Class officers, John Holmes, president; Rick Boyer, vice-president; and Bryan Ton, secretary-treasurer, under the sponsorship of Miss Bailey and Mr. Bass helped their class plan and perform their junior play, "Onions in the Stew." Juniors worked hard during football and basketball sessions earning money on Junior Concessions for the biggest social event of the year, the Junior-Senior Prom.

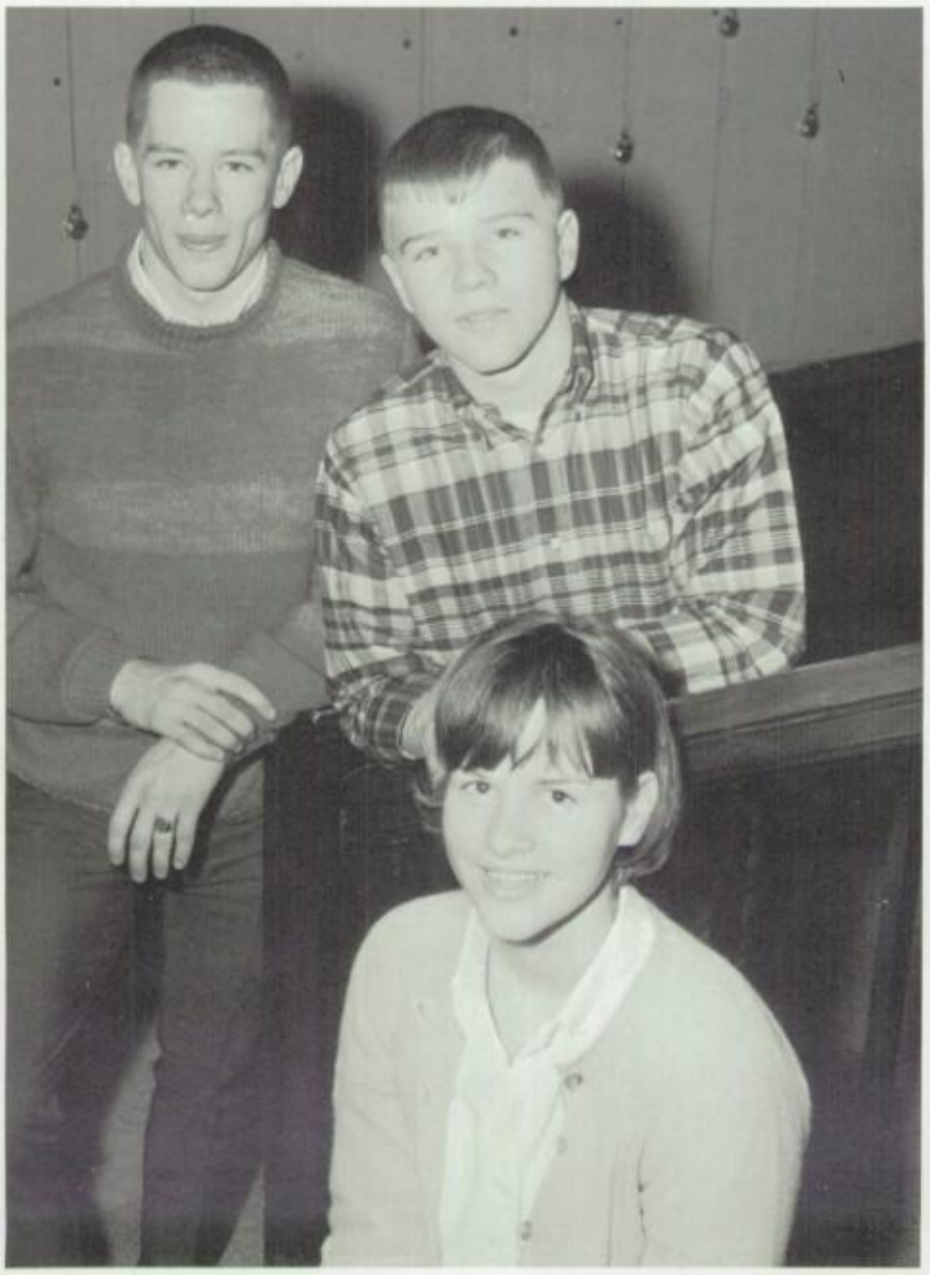
SOPHOMORES START A HIGH SCHOOL CAREER



Combining brains, brawn, and beauty into leadership, Sophomores chose Mike Adams, vice-president; David Graham, president; and Barb Smith, secretary-treasurer, as class officers.

Upon entering Elston, the Sophomores found new classes, new schedules, new faces, and generally new experiences. After a few weeks of the confusion and excitement, Sophomores settled into the normal routine of academic life. They made plans for "The Roaring 20's," their annual party. Donning stringy beads, coonskin coats and double breasted suits, the vibrant crowd revived the days of the Charleston, the Flapper, and the cigar chewing gangster. Leading their class in social events and at pep sessions were officers David Graham, president; Mike Adams, vice-president; and Barb Smith, secretary-treasurer. Supervising the plans were the sponsors, Mrs. Durand and Mr. Lootens.

"What d' ya' know. We're only three thousand dollars in the red!" exclaim Mrs. Durand and Mr. Lootens, Sophomore class sponsors.

BUSINESS

TODAY'S ELSTON STUDENTS ARE THE FUTURE INDUSTRIALISTS, BUSINESSMEN, AND MERCHANTS OF MICHIGAN CITY. THE STUDENT AND BUSINESSMAN ARE DEPENDENT UPON EACH OTHER. THE STUDENT LOOKS TO BUSINESS FOR EMPLOYMENT AND JOB TRAINING. MANY BUSINESSMEN AND MERCHANTS RELY HEAVILY UPON STUDENT PATRONAGE. IN MICHIGAN CITY THERE EXISTS THIS HEALTHY, SUCCESSFUL RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN YOUNG PEOPLE AND BUSINESS.

Mr. Surber demonstrates to Dan Kline and his mother the device which Dan will use to communicate with his classes through Elston's loudspeaker system.

An Afterthought:

THREE ELSTON STUDENTS ATTEND BY PHONE IN '65

In our endeavor to include everyone in the ELSTONIAN, the yearbook staff overlooked those students who attend school by phone. Communicating through the loudspeakers in the classrooms, they can answer questions and participate in discussions.

Bruce Burgwald, a senior, has been using this system since September, 1963. Marcia Spring, also a senior, was a telephone student during an illness in the first semester of the '64-'65 year. Sophomore Dan Cline tuned in to his classrooms for the fourth six-weeks while recuperating from a Christmas holiday accident.

ELSTONIAN STAFF BUSY IN '65

The ELSTONIAN Year progressed like an old steam engine pulling out of the station—very slowly for a long time with Mrs. Nightingale stoking coal like mad trying to get up steam, and Mr. Lonzo yelling and pushing from behind the caboose. But, like the old train, once we got going, we really moved. We had to. There were important school events to cover and deadlines to meet. As pictures flooded in, ideas became reality on the page. But the book didn't come alive for us until one day when Ned Dolson came down to S113 with his cover idea—it was just the spirited feeling we wanted. Besides designing the cover, he is responsible for the artwork on page 4 and 5. Our sincere thanks go to Ned for his contribution to the '65 ELSTONIAN. Our final deadline came on March 12; we mailed our last batch of pages with the hope that we could now sleep at night and the conviction that we had accurately and artistically told the story of '65.

Our thanks to everyone who took part in this co-operative effort: administrators, teachers, and our fellow students; to American Yearbook Company and to Mr. Ed Hackleman, their representative; to Root Studio; and to Smith Cover Company. And most of all thanks to Mrs. Nightingale who many times brought the light (or laser) to blind eyes.

Mi Amor,
Tu eres lo mejor que me pasado a mi y le doy gracias a Dios que tu pudieras encontrar en tu corazon sayer para amar a alguien como yo. Algun dia cuando ya estemos cayados de los argumentos locos que pasado pensando y nos reiremos al temas tenido y nos amo mas que la vida misma. Recuerda siempre de luana. Amor siempre y para siempre.
Que yo te amo

P.S. En realidad no tengo que decirte, pero por si acaso necesitamos de vez en cuando que no digo que te calles la boca otra vez!
